Secretary of State Jim Bennett was discussing absentee ballots on a recent visit to Troy. He said that if more than 5-7% of the votes were absentees, the bells and whistles should go off. That means something is probably rotten with the election system if more than that percentage of people cast absentee ballots. Bennett said Alabama is often the victim of election manipulators. He explained that Third World countries use soldier and guns to control the people ... in America we simply allow ballot manipulators and corrupt voting to control elections. We hope his proposed bill to better control absentee ballots and stiffen penalties will work.

FEMA is a federal agency well known around Elba, following the 1990 flood. They continue to get criticized for slow reaction. Each time the agency big wigs promise to be better prepared next time. Well, they were not prepared last week for the California earthquake. The sad story is that when California folks finally get someone to take their red tape applications for help, there will be another long troubling wait ... just as happened to many Elba folks, South Florida folks and those still waiting after

The ruling this week by the U. S. Supreme Court dealing with antiruling doesn't prevent peaceful protest, we think classifying violent protesters as racketeers is more than those framing the law intended. We are all mixed up here, because we also think violent protesters in any area should be duly, and harshly, punished. With the new court decision we understand that it is up to a federal judge to invoke the anti-racketeering law - officially named the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations legislation (RICO). It means that you may be the head of an anti-abortion group and if some of us members do something violent and get caught .. you could be sued and forced to pay triple damages. This probably means judges will have personal opinions which differ from those of other judges and the law will be applied unequally. In other words in one federal district it will be used to control this violence and in a neighboring area that

The Elba City Council deadlocked on a 3-3 vote Monday night over a settlement offer with former recreation director Ricky Mularz. This apparently means no more offers of settlement. Council member Brad Wilson, one of the three votting against the settlement offer, said after the meeting that the people in District 5 (which he represents) are telling him they want to let a judge settle the matter. That may be right, but we question that judgement. We were not in the meeting with Federal Judge Coody when reportfollows:

Melanie takes her lunch to daycare every day, and since Dad is in charge of planning the menu and Melanie loves spaghetti, you would be right if you guessed that most days her lunchbox includes the little bowls of spaghetti that you pop in the microwave. She never complains, but one day last week she did ask for a slight change in the menu and said she wanted a peanut butter sandwich, which of course, she got. The main course may be a little lacking, but never fear, she also eats all her jello, fruit and cookies. Now that's a well balanced meal for any four-year-old!

The three wins guaranteed the Tigers of a least a share of the area title and proved once again that when it comes to 3A competition, the Elba Tigers are hard to beat. The win over Louisville was a little tougher than expected, as the 4-12 Red Devils came to town ready to play, and threatened to blow the Tigers off the court in the first half. Louisville dominated play from the opening second half rally last Tuesday night tip and by the end of the half was in complete command. Elba came out fired up in the second half, and behind the longrange bombing of Will Magwood staged a furious rally that lifted the Tigers to the win. Mag-wood, known more as an inside player, hit five buckets from behind the three-point line to spark the Elba rally, and the defense of the Tigers allowed them a chance to pull out the win. The comeback win was hard for Louisville slipped to 4-12, 0-2 in the Tiger fans to watch, but showed that the Tigers have what it takes to area play. win when things aren't going well. son, c'mon out, you'll certainly get a chance to cheer!

The high school basketball season is beginning to head down the homestretch and it looks like New Brockton and Brantley are both getting again; however, and Elba added a ready for the post-season party. Here's a look back at last week's action.... late score to claim the 55-52 win. ***NEW BROCKTON (10-5) claimed a pair of hardfought wins and Will Magwood hit five threein the process began to show the mental toughness that should carry the point shots and scored a total of 18 Gamecocks through the area tournament. New Brockton still isn't click-points to lead the Tigers, while Daing on all cylinders, but it now knows it can win if it plays hard, and if the vid Yelverton added 15 and Che necocks can put it all together, a bunch more wins may be coming. Vaughan scored 11. Guilford scored ***BRANTLEY (17-0) has no competition in its own class, and last 15 for Louisville. week made it look very easy as the Bulldogs cruised past Red Level, Pleasant Home, Kinston and J.F. Shields. The Bulldogs have had to play hard for all four quarters only once or twice all season, and it could pay big dividends when the 'Dogs begin their drive for another state title. By the way, the win over J.F. Shields on Saturday night was the 35th straight.

***ZION CHAPEL (3-9) played a home-and-home series with G.W. needed win. The Rebels have a talented squad, but just can't seem to take that big step toward being a winner. Don't let the record fool ya: however, because these Rebels may explode at any issue.

The Bulldogs play as hard as any team to be found and are always dangerous, but haven't seemed able to buy a break lately and have seen their record take a nosedive. Don't count'em quite yet; however, because these 'Dogs sull have teeth.

the Zion Chapel-Kinston winner will ton may be the pre-tourney favorite by leading the renegade Raiders to a Super Bowl win, then turned sportscaster and over the years has turned into the "mouth that roars" over just about anything. Madden's style obviously impressed the FOX officials, who were anxious to sign a big name sportscaster to prove that they were devoted to their new NFL contract, but the $30 million contract showed me that this FOX ain't that sly.

The tournament is actually two tournaments in one, with both eighth and ninth grade teams competing.

Georgetown's John Thompson get thrown out of his team's lopsided loss to DePaul. Thompson was a highly respected, and successful, coach for many years, but in recent years has seemed more concerned with the politics of the game than coaching, and the Hoyas have seen their dominance come to a screeching halt. Maybe he should try competing with Rush Limbaugh and let someone else do the coaching.

***Michael Jordan was the MVP of the North Carolina State Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament back when he was 15-years-old, but it looks like his ego may be getting the best of him in his try to make the Major Leagues. There is no doubt Jordan is an unbelievable athlete and was the best basketball player ever; however, it takes years of practice and hard work to be a major league baseball player and not just a couple of hours in the batting cage. It can't be the money, so, it must be the ego.

Tigers score late

Luverne slipped to 8-6 with the loss, -2 in area competition. The game was a sec-saw affair in the opening half as the two rivals swapped buckets, and at intermission the score was knotted at 29-

Elba began to take control in the third quarter and behind the play of David Yelverton and Che Vaughan moved out to a nine-point advantage, only to see Luverne cut the lead to 40-35 by the end of the stanza. Luverne took advantage of Elba's foul troubles in the final stanza to rally and grab a three-point lead late in the game; however, sophomore Leray Smedley hit a three-pointer to spark an Elba comeback and the Tigers' Rossco Coleman hit a driving layup with less than a minute left in the game to put Elba on top 54-53, and Will Magwood tipped in a missed free-throw with only seconds left to give the Tigers the 56-53 win. David Yelverton scored 16 points and grabbed 11 rebounds before ing out in the fourth quarter, while Rossco Coleman scored 11 points and handed out 6 assists and
